About Project-Based Academic Skill Development

The goal of project-based learning is to engage students in moments of exploration and self-discovery in activities and projects that help them learn, share, and teach. Through this type of learning, campers will develop systematic methods for problem-solving and discovery by being presented with various goal-oriented projects to be organized and completed by the campers, individually, and as a team! Campers will work through projects related to the theme of the week that involve the development of skills such as organization and note-taking, discussion and brainstorming, team building, reading and writing, logic, dramatic role-play, mathematical concepts, STEAM, and public speaking/presentation. For example, one project may be to develop a restaurant from the ground up, including the creation of a design plan; setting a budget for building materials, food and other daily costs; presenting the business proposal to a group of possible funders; and then how to creatively run it as a successful business owner.
